People of a place or community have great ideas for how to make things better. Neighbour Grants helps people implement their own small acts of community right in the neighbourhoods and communities where they live by offering up to $7,500 for project expenses.

The small acts of community we support tend to be projects where people:

- Build gathering spaces, such as community gardens and naturalized areas.
- Engage people in creative ways to address concerns, such as community-created street murals, anti-racism arts festivals, and non-partisan discussions on the importance of voting.
- Foster a sense of pride and presence, such as cultural sharing events and achievement celebrations of local youth and seniors.
- Give people the chance to get involved in community life, such as book- or tool-sharing libraries, new kinds of neighbourhood festivals, and skills-sharing events.
- Plan and guide neighbourhood and community development, such as resident-driven design or sustainability workshops and Reconciliation-themed learning initiatives.

To qualify, the small acts of community must:

- Help people be leaders within everyday life of their own communities.
- Form new or stronger connections between local people, groups, and organizations.
- Strengthen people's sense of belonging within the diversity of neighbourhood or community.
- Agree to follow all public health guidelines for the pandemic and adapt as guidelines evolve.

Who can apply?

Registered charities and other qualified doneesⁱ can apply for projects that take place in Calgary and areaⁱⁱ. If your group is not a registered charity, call us to discuss grant options.

Is Neighbour Grants a one-time only grant?

No. While groups can only have one grant at a time, it's not a one-time-only grant. We're happy to hear from past grantees about new projects or about next steps in a project we supported that make it more meaningful, more welcoming to isolated or diverse parts of their community, or more economically or environmentally sustainable. Look at Calgary Foundation's Vital Priorities, areas that we identify as needing greater community leadership and attention, our commitment to racial equity.

Is Neighbour Grants only about grants?

No. We can help you think through your project ideas, connect with peers who've done similar projects, develop strategies to involve a wider diversity of your neighbourhood and community, consider project sustainability, and how to tell your project story.

What can Neighbour Grants be used for?

Typical costs are for community involvement. Examples: Event space rental, refreshments, supplies people will use to build or offer something for the community, and fees for artists who will help people participate and create something great or honoraria to Indigenous Elders who teach and guide a project in a good way. During the pandemic, we will consider expenses related to virtual and distanced initiatives that build belonging while keeping everyone safe.

Neighbour Grants cannot be used for: Debt retirement, expenses that have already been spent, facility improvements, fundraising projects, ongoing operating expenses, or for projects with costly ticket prices.

Who evaluates Neighbour Grants applications?

A Calgary Foundation volunteer committee of local leaders who believe in active citizenship and inclusive welcoming community life review eligible applications.
